During pregnancy women's bodies go through drastic changes. Massage during the second and third trimester of pregnancy is very helpful in helping women cope with both the physical and emotional changes that happen.

There are a lot of cautionary issues though to be understood to massage safely during this important time.

You will learn about the relevant physical changes and how to accommodate them in your massage and you will be able to deliver an enjoyable, relaxing, safe and remedial pregnancy massage. You will also learn when and how to perform postpartum massages.

To enrol, students will need to provide evidence that they have completed Swedish massage. This course is delivered by a fully qualified Massage Therapist.

* With this course you can earn 10 points towards your CPE.
